

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation. It should also be illegal if it is not currently.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. I was under the impression that there was a requirement for equal time when airing partisan content.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
